Call For Papers

The VEE conference brings together researchers and practitioners in the area of virtual execution environments for programs and systems. The conference seeks original papers on virtualization at all levels of the hardware and software stack. The topics of interest include, but are not limited to:

- Virtual machines for high-level languages
- Programming language support for virtualization
- Compiler support for virtualization (including dynamic compilation)
- Binary translation and optimization
- Novel techniques and applications of interpreters
- Automatic resource and memory management
- Virtualization for security and reliability
- Virtualization technologies for grid computing
- Virtualization technologies for parallel computing
- Virtual machine monitors
- Operating system support for virtualization
- Management technologies for virtual environments
- Large-scale virtual environments
- Virtual Storage
- Virtualization technologies for desktop applications
- Applications that use virtualization in novel ways
- Other experiences with virtual execution environments
- Performance analysis and debugging for virtual execution environments

Important Dates
All times specified below are US Pacific Daylight Savings Time. These deadlines are strict and no extensions will be granted.
